

Most conversations seem to be about water at the moment. Spare a thought for plot holders on the far side of the field. Water pressure is very low and troughs remain empty when hosepipes are used elsewhere.

All are welcome at the Brew Crew on Saturday 4th for drinks and cakes, for a donation. There will also be a few garden tools for sale to raise funds for the field

Judging

We have not yet received the new criteria for the annual judging of IAS plots, I am afraid. We will make them available when we do

Field inspections

These take place once a month during the growing season. Most plots are fine and we are not looking for perfection. It is the cultivation of plots that matters. Council rules require us to have cultivated 25% of our plot within the first 3 months, then 75% by the end of the first year and from then on.

Community Payback team

This team will be working on the field on Saturday 18th July.

Fences

You may be aware that unlike most other fields we do not have our own fence surrounding the field. Most have been put up and paid for by householders who back on to the field. Please ensure that you move items leaning against or next to fences, along with plants growing up against them.

As ever, if you need clarification or want to check something with me, let me know.
